The Halekulani Corporation, incorporated in Hawaii in 1981, is headquartered in downtown Honolulu and involved primarily in the development and management of upscale, luxury resorts in Hawaii. The Halekulani Corporation also owns and manages the world famous Halekulani. GUEST ROOMS

With the hotel's recent redesign, the Waikiki Parc Hotel's 297-guest room experience flows seamlessly throughout the public areas. Guest's rooms feature an "accent wall," a richly-hued ebony wood headboard with built-in direct lighting and individual reading lights, illuminating vibrant artwork above the bed. Guests are enveloped in the hotel's crisp white bedding and plush duvet and pillows. The signature design accent of guest rooms is the orange and white abstract 'Swoon Pillow,' created by Los Angeles artist Gabrielle Jennings and exclusive to the Waikiki Parc Hotel.

Guest rooms are modern, pristine and elegant. Plantation shutters give rooms ethereal light, an airy residential appeal and provide a clean backdrop to the conversation area and writing desk. Ceramic flooring compliment plush textured inlaid carpeting and inviting European styled bed-dressing on either king-size or two double beds. A modern wood credenza with beveled marble and glass finish provide ample storage and space for luggage.
